* Fill. There are a few different ways to fill a shape with color, but this is perhaps the most useful. You can use the Color Replacement tool with the Quick Selection tool in Photoshop, select a color with the Quick Selection tool and click the Fill button or Shift+Ctrl+F. A separate dialog opens, and you can choose a color from a palette of colors. You can also paste your own color. (The top of the Color menu is filled with pastel colors you may use for filling.) * Eraser. There are four different erasers: the Eraser, the Magic Eraser, the Color Replacement Eraser, and the Spot Eraser. If you have lots of damage on an image, you may want to erase those areas, leaving the rest of the image. If you have a color or an area of an image that's important, you can make the rest of the image different, but keep the spot by pressing a second Eraser tool. * Magic Wand. You can use this tool to quickly remove background objects or unwanted elements from images. If the area you want to select is gray, you can use the Magic Wand to select all the grayed-out shapes. You can then select things that should be removed (such as text) and then use the Eraser tool or the Delete key to remove the unwanted area. * GloBatch. This tool allows you to change the behavior of multiple brushes at once. Once you set up the tools you want to use, it's possible to have the tool work on multiple images by choosing Browse and opening all the images you want. * Hue/Saturation. This tool sets colors up for brighter or darker versions, depending on what colors you click on. You can make a color completely red, by adding red to its HSL (Hue/Saturation/Luminance) color space; changing the saturation is not the only way to make a color red. * Filter. Filters are often used to modify images. They open up a new world of creativity and artistry. Each filter has its own unique settings and behavior. * Brush. You can use brushes to paint on images and add effects to the image. You can create your own brush tools from scratch, or you can buy brushes from a variety of sources. * Pencils
