To use the search bar, click on the gray down arrow next to the x key. Then type the text you're looking for in the search bar and press enter. *Note:To find more detailed and concise information about a feature, click the "?" icon in the top left corner of the toolbar. A tool tip will appear next to the question mark. Click the question mark again to dismiss the tooltip. 4. Layers Layers are the most basic form of editing in Photoshop Elements. Layers are "stacked" on top of each other. Each layer represents a different level of detail in an image. You can create new layers using the layers panel (layers window). To create a new layer, click the "New" icon on the Layers Panel's right. When you create a new layer, a red circle appears next to the layer's name in the layers panel. of money. I also thought about starting off my career with one of the companies that usually employ fashion designers, such as the companies that create clothing for retailers, and selling my own designs once I had proved myself. Looking back at it now, I am a little sad that I chose not to pursue that dream. But then again, the odds of me succeeding in that type of job would have been slim, due to my lack of a fashion education and the fact that my background is almost entirely in arts and design. It just wasn't going to happen for me. If I had continued at BPL, chances are I would have ended up in maintenance. I would have kept my skills sharp, but I never would have developed my design skills as I once dreamed I would. And so a few months after graduating from college, I had to choose: what do I want to do with my life? Do I want to be a designer and build my own clothing line? Or do I want to spend my time teaching other fashion students what I know? I had originally taken the path that I thought might lead to more of a social life as well as a larger salary. I thought that being a designer would mean more people would see my clothes, my designs, and my name. But I quickly realized that I was wrong. Here I am, a few years later, still teaching other students, doing what I love. I don't have any plans to make a full-time career of it, but I am very happy with the small future I have. I am glad I didn't go the route that I thought I wanted to go. I am not wealthy or wealthy. But I feel like my life is very good. I have achieved my dreams. And I will continue to be grateful for the path I chose. Don't wait until you feel ready, because you never will be. Start immediately. Monday, February 17, 2015 Hi, I am Lea! I am a designer from London. I graduated with a degree in fashion from Bournemouth college. I am currently working on my own clothing line which is a larger version of a bikini line called The River. I always love the beach and I think that the swimwear industry could definitely stand for a refresh. So I thought I'd do my own take on it. I would really love to hear from you! I'd love to
